

FranklinCovey Presents Excellence in Execution Award to C.R. England, Inc. and England Logistics, Inc.

March 28, 2023

C.R. England, Inc. and England Logistics, Inc. Achieve Highest Percentile of Execution Performance Score of FranklinCovey Clients Worldwide, Using The 4 Disciplines of Execution System to Exceed Goals and Objectives

SALT LAKE CITY--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Mar. 28, 2023-- FranklinCovey, one of the largest and most trusted leadership companies in the world, announced today it presented its FranklinCovey Excellence in Execution Award to C.R. England, Inc. and England Logistics, Inc. Headquartered in Salt Lake City, they are one of North America's largest and most reliable refrigerated transportation companies and freight brokerage firms, with services that include National, Mexico, and Regional Truckload service, in addition to Dedicated and Intermodal services.

"We congratulate both companies, as this award is so well-deserved," said Paul Walker, FranklinCovey CEO. "It's only presented to organizations that achieve data-confirmed, proven results over a period of years. Since 2014, they have executed on their strategy and consistently achieved their Wildly Important Goals® across their organizations for breakthrough results. The 4 Disciplines of Execution® are part of their culture and who they are, as they have extended the process further into their organizations each year. They are models for all our clients, and we're honored to be their partner."

Chad England, C.R. England, Inc. CEO, said, "We're thrilled to receive this award. At C.R. England, Inc., excellence is not a one-time act, but a habit of hard work with great results. We don't settle for average, or even good. We hold ourselves accountable to a standard of excellence. The 4 Disciplines of Execution®(4DX®) System has brought focus, accountability, and engagement to our work, and we have experienced extraordinary results that have benefited our people and our customers. We attribute much of our success to this System and to working closely with FranklinCovey."

"We've become a 'smarter, faster, better' type organization over the years in part because of The 4 Disciplines of Execution System," said Jason Beardall, England Logistics, Inc. CEO. "We have progressively grown into a nationwide leader in freight brokerage because we believe that quality, hard work, and integrity are the basis for our success. We strive for excellence in everything we do, which includes consistent, flawless execution on our key strategic objectives."

Relating to the award, the companies achieved the highest percentile of the Execution Performance Score ("XPS") of FranklinCovey clients worldwide, using FranklinCovey's 4DX® System to exceed company goals and objectives. They also achieved goals in safety, on-time service and in driver retention. The award is based on the following measures:

1. Highest percentile of the Execution Performance Score ("XPS").
2. Highest percentage of individuals within the organization that make commitments weekly toward the achievement of their teams' Wildly Important Goals.
3. Percentage of those commitments that are achieved on a weekly basis.
4. Performance on Lead Measures which the team determines are necessary for achievement of the WIGs.
5. The performance against the Wildly Important Goals across the organization.
6. Engaged in The 4DX System for three years or more

Worldwide, organizations spend $31+ billion on strategy creation, and more than 80 percent of those strategies fail to produce expected results. What's been missing is a proven system for consistently executing on strategy through people. For over 20 years, the FranklinCovey Execution Practice has studied why execution fails, what can be done to fix it, and what it takes to set, track, and achieve breakthrough results around key strategic targets. They have worked with more than 140,000 teams in over 4,000 client implementations and have a proven track record of case-worthy results in every kind of industry worldwide, in business, government, and education.

The 4DX System is based on The Wall Street Journal bestseller, The 4 Disciplines of Execution: Achieving Your Wildly Important Goals®, authored by Chris McChesney, Sean Covey, Jim Huling, with Beverly Walker and Scott Thiele. It outlines a proven process for helping organizations turn sporadic performance into a system of consistent predictable results. It is applied at two levels: Leaders of leaders, and frontline teams. Based on The 4 Disciplines of Execution, senior leaders conduct four actions with their team leaders to scale impact and results:

1. Define the Breakthrough. Narrow the focus and create clarity and commitment around a key breakthrough result with executable targets.
2. Activate Frontline Teams. Unleash and apply everyone's collective energy toward your key breakthrough result using the 4DX principles and implementation processes. 4DX principles create a common language and process for front-line implementation of the key breakthrough result.
3. Create Organizational Transparency. Utilize a scalable platform, The 4DX® Platform, with scoreboards that let everyone know if they're winning or losing as a team, as individuals, and as an organization.
4. Track Execution Pace. Track the pace of progress real-time using a metric called XPS (Execution Performance Score) to ensure all your teams are on track to achieving your breakthrough result.

The 4DX framework allows leaders to effectively deal with their biggest challenge; executing strategy that requires a change in human behavior at scale. The 4DX System supplies the framework, tools, and measurement resources to ensure breakthrough results. Also included is The 4DX Platform, an online tool and app that supports the methodology by tracking commitments and goal achievement, providing a cadence of accountability to both individuals and organizations, and ensuring overall success. The 4DX System is the key to organizations moving from simply reaching a few goals to dramatically changing their impact in the marketplace.
